

Ciao, Bella

Welcome to 61 Osteria. We are so pleased that you are here to share in the unique experience that we have prepared. Every plating houses the philosophy of "Texas Ingredients with an Italian twist." Italian culture and American culture have become intertwined over generations of history. Food culture has always begun with what was available. Individuals that truly shaped food culture took what was available and created something remarkable. This led to protected agricultural products, areas of production, and the overall culture of Italian food and wine. The act of sharing recipes, wines, and tradition is what has brought our team of chefs and sommeliers together. Executive Chef Blaine Staniford is taking a modern approach to Italian ingredients, uniquely impacted by heritage and experience.

Our wine list invites you to explore the variety of Italian flavors presented in our menu by region. Think of native Italian grapes as protected agricultural products housed within designated areas of production. The wine list begins with a map of Italy for reference. You may use this to find wines that connect you to the foods and flavors you wish to enjoy. We focus on a couple of major areas within Italy: Piedmont, Veneto, Tuscany, and Sicily. There are also a great number of wines from Old World and New World regions. The "Wines by the Glass" section begins the list, followed by the "Cocktails," a seasonal take on classic Italian flavors. The "Classics" section includes a variety of popular, accessible cocktails. The "Beer" section has plenty of Italian import beers, alongside local craft beers. Finally, the Spirits, Vermouth, Amari, and Grappa are located at the very back of the list.

The year 1961 has some important significance to us. 1961 is the birth year of Owner Dain "Adam" Jones, the building we occupy, as well as Italy's most famous sparkling wine, Franciacorta. Founder Guido Berlucchi was inspired to make a sparkling wine from Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, and Pinot Blanc. His innovation used French grapes and combined it with the tradition of Champagne to create what would become a part of Italian culture in Lombardy. We hope we impact the space of Fort Worth's food and wine culture as we present this menu in all of its seasons.
